

Article published Apr 27, 2008

Room to grow anew

Building Hope is a capital campaign for The Wellness Community, a nonprofit organization providing free support services to people affected by cancer.

Building Hope will become a destination facility for thousands and will feature numerous healthy advantages for participants through innovative green features and an inspired combination of art, design, gardens and technology. Building Hope has received unprecedented support from the local professional design community.

The new facility, planned for construction on a pastoral five-acre setting in Lakewood Ranch in Sarasota, is expected to become a model for The Wellness Community facilities worldwide.